

The Art of Governance

(Source: Anonymous)

Active Listening: Encouraging the speaker and searching for meaning

Public Dialogue: Public talk on matters that concern us all

Creative Conflict: Engaging others in ways that produce growth

Meditation and Negotiation: Problem-solving that meets some key interests of all involved

Political Imagination: Re-imagining our future according to our shared values

Public Judgment: Public decision-making allowing citizens to make choices they are willing to implement

Celebration and Appreciation: Remembering that it can be fun and acknowledging hard work

Evaluation and Reflection: Assessing and incorporating the lessons we learn through action

Mentoring: Supporting and guiding others in learning these arts of public life

MOUNTAINTOP INSIGHT CONSULTING

www.mountaintopinsight.com

PACIFIC LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

www.pacificleadershipprogram.com

SHARED VALUES OF DREAM MAKERS

(Source Anonymous)

Their visions are large, deep and unmuddled by cynicism

They lead their organizations with a reverence for all human relationships

Their diverse experience provides them with a rich array of choices and ideas

When their logic and feelings are at odds, they trust their hearts more often than not

They understand the value of collaboration and cooperation in accomplishing goals, getting superior results and fulfilling our basic human desires for a sense of belonging

They allow creativity to soar and share a spirit of invention

They share a sense of freedom; freedom to choose their own path; and an inability to accept conformity

They use the lessons learned from mistakes and failures to fuel their visions

They look to everyone and every situation, diligently seeking new information and improved knowledge

They believe they are a part of something greater than themselves

MOUNTAINTOP INSIGHT CONSULTING

www.mountaintopinsight.com

PACIFIC LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

www.pacificleadershipprogram.com